

No More Leniency, Says Judge Delinquent Motorists to Face Heavy Penalties, Court Warns

Recommended

Notice was served Monday by Justice O'Connor on "careless and drunken" automobile drivers that severe penalties will be imposed on future offenders.

The warning was issued by Mr. Justice O'Connor when passing sentence on Leonard Eckel, Miller hardware merchant, who pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge arising out of the death of Mrs. Christina Coughlin from injuries received when she was struck by an automobile operated by the accused at the intersection of 108 street and Jasper avenue, on Dec. 17 last.

Passing sentence on Eckel, Mr. Justice O'Connor said: "You are guilty to the charge that you did it with malice, while driving an automobile on the highway in the City of Edmonton, unlawfully cause the death of Christina Coughlin."

THE MATERIAL FACTS are that you, while intoxicated, drove a motor car at an excessive speed on Jasper avenue, and passed a motor car on the wrong side, that you ran down and killed Christina Coughlin at the intersection of 108 street, then drove on to a considerable distance until you finally collided with a post on a motor car passing you, or your previous good conduct, or the other mitigating circumstances which your counsel has to say put before me. The serious nature of the offence is not only the death and injury you have occasioned, but the fact that you drove a motor car while drinking.

"FATAL MOTOR CAR accidents are occurring all too frequently. It is necessary to bring more motor car drivers to the attention of the law, and to make them realize the responsibility of their actions. It is my duty to see to it that you are not a repeat offender. I sentence you to serve a term of two years, less one day in the house of correction."

Boy Abandoned By His Parents

Apparently abandoned by his parents in the bitter cold of Sunday afternoon, a three-year-old boy was found wandering alone in a back lane in Red Deer about 2 p.m. Sunday. Inside the child's clothing was found a pencilled note: "Please take this boy into the Alberta Training School."

RCMP officials stated Monday that extensive investigations had failed to bring any trace of the child's identity. There are no identification marks on his clothing and a check at the school, trains and buses, has failed to produce any results.

The child, who is unable to talk, is dressed in blue coat, trousers and helmet. He was wearing black shoes and rubbers and had on a red hat.

POLICE, SHOCKED by the callousness of the persons who abandoned the child, are offering a reward of $500 to anyone who can help to identify him. They stated that he is of fair complexion with brown eyes and has an old injury to his nose, which is flat.

Anyone having information concerning this abandoned child is asked to contact a detachment of the RCMP immediately.

THE PROPOSAL was disclosed by Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting governor-general in the Netherlands East Indies, after he submitted it to Indonesian leaders. Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, special British envoy, seeking to end the strife in the Dutch Dutch colony, attended the conference with the Dutch and Indonesian leaders. There was no immediate comment from Premier Sultan Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian republic who said Saturday he had been delegated full authority from the government to negotiate with Van Mook and Sir Archibald. Van Mook said newspapermen he believed the Indonesians would accept the prospect of "self-determination in our time," in preference to continued civil war.

THE STATEMENT SAID the Netherlands government intended to draft a new democratic constitution for the Dutch kingdom in consultation with authoritative Indonesian representatives. The partnership would be maintained for a limited period sufficient to fulfill conditions for a free decision, when the partners could decide independently on the Indonesian kingdom.

Under the commonwealth proposal all Indonesians would be given citizenship entitling them to civil rights in all parts of the Netherlands kingdom.

The representative would have special powers to guarantee sound administration and finance. A constitution would establish rights of freedom of worship and racial equality.

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

RESPECT for law is taking a terrible beating these days. It will be surprising if it doesn't take an even worse beating in the months to come. The reason for this is that Canadians have had two painfully obvious object lessons, the Aldershot riots of last summer, and the recent occupation, in Vancouver of the vacant CPR Hotel Vancouver. The regrettable lesson is—the only way to break down official apathy is to break the law.

Last summer, troops in England, awaiting repatriation, grew weary of hearing army officials explain that they were doing everything possible, nothing more could be done, when they complained about food, pay regulations and repatriation slow-ups and inequalities. Some of them, fed up to the teeth, went out and kicked the towns of Aldershot around. Half-a-dozen of the rioters were court-martialed and then sent to prison terms. The rest of the troops had their grievances adjusted. Troops returning to Canada bragged proudly: "We got what we were after."

FOR MONTHS, now, the housing situation in Vancouver has been increasingly critical. Veterans could find no accommodation for themselves or their families. Veterans organizations, citizens groups, civic and provincial governments urged the Dominion government to assist. The situation—suggested that the old Hotel Vancouver, standing empty since the army moved out, should be turned into a temporary hotel. Ottawa paid no attention. Everything possible was being done. It was "impossible" to take over the hotel.

THE QUESTION
What do you think of the proposal by the Dominion government to establish an office here for its public works department?

ANSWERS
BILL HARROW, clerk: It will keep officials in closer touch with the work. It is difficult to administer public projects satisfactorily from a great distance.

FRANK SMITHSON, accountant: I think it is a laudable idea. Edmonton is the logical place to have such an office. It should prove beneficial to the government and to the projects.

HARRY HOLRICK, trucker: There is every reason to believe that the whole plan will be satisfactory. I think it will be a good move.

Fourteen Jailed By City Police Over Week-End

Fourteen persons were arrested over the week-end by city police including seven men and a woman on intoxication charges and two men on theft charges. Two cases, one of which was recovered, were also sent to court.

PATRICK LABOUCANE, 10006 106A avenue, and his cousin Pete Laboucane, 3111 10th street, were arrested early Sunday morning charged with stealing $62 from Stanley Newdowick of 814 Park. The complainant also claimed that a wrist watch and ring were stolen from him.

Robbery is alleged to have occurred at the home of Patrick Laboucane following a party. A wrist watch and ring were found in a small cardboard box buried in the snow. Discovery was made by city police investigating the complaint.

AN APPARENTLY well-planned theft of a city tax cab was foiled by city police early Sunday morning when they recovered the auto before it could be taken from the city. The car, owned by Walter Eveson, was the subject of a Tax Company, was reported stolen from 98 street and 103 avenue about 10:30 p.m. Saturday. The driver, John Nolia, had left the car for a few minutes with the keys in the ignition.

The car was recovered on 97 street just north of Jasper avenue shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday. Lieutenants of the 10th division, who were on duty at the time, suggested that the old Hotel Vancouver, standing empty since the army moved out, should be turned into a temporary hotel. Ottawa paid no attention. Everything possible was being done. It was "impossible" to take over the hotel.

Airline Parley Writes Charter For Industry

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 11.—(AP)—British and United States officials, in three weeks of negotiations here, have written a charter for air commerce which may set a pattern for the world.

UNDER THE AGREEMENT—now awaiting approval in London and Washington—each nation may where it wishes, so often as it wishes, so long as it observes regulations designed to prevent curtailment of air commerce.

A feature of the draft agreement is a provision for quick consultation between the two governments when one feels that the other's airlines are cutting unfairly into its traffic.

Here are some of the major points bargained from participants on both sides:

1. There will be fixed for the first year by international airplane operators through their own organization, meeting in New York about March 1. These fares will be subject to review by both governments and must be reconsidered by operators at regular intervals to keep them adjusted to changing operating costs. No operator will be free to raise a fare by retaining to join in an international agreement for a new fare after a certain period has elapsed.

2. There will be no limitation on the number of flights or the number of seats sold on a flight.

3. The right is granted to pick up traffic in one country and carry it to another country along the route. A route pattern linking the territories of each country with the rest of the world have been agreed upon.

4. Under a separate agreement, the two countries will permit each other the airlines and other countries having aviation agreements with them to use U.S. military bases on territory leased from Britain. These bases are in the Western Atlantic and Newfoundland.

ONE SURPRISING development of the conference was the decision to outline each country's world route pattern for the future, a step taken at British insistence along the route of closed British plans to link Europe with all of South America, both by way of Africa and the United States, and to circle the world with routes crossing North America.

Kissing Expert Fails Attract Wife's Interest

CALGARY, Feb. 11.—(CP)—Continental-wide fame that came to Earl B. Graham, 44, as the "kissing expert" of Vegreville, 37 miles east of Edmonton, has failed to impress his wife, who is a telephone exchange operator at the Central Alberta Sanatorium at Keth, about seven miles west of Calgary.

Fame came to Mr. Graham, cook in a Vegreville cafe, when he informed the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce of his unusual hobby.

Word was flashed over the radio and through other news services with the result that telephone poured into Vegreville seeking more information on the art of kissing.

Mr. Graham frankly admitted she's not interested. In fact she hasn't even bothered to read the publicity that has been given to

When his hobby came into prominence last month and inquiries started to come in Mr. Graham began sending out mimeographed sheets containing his instructions in 25 different methods of kissing. ## Big Labor Lobby For B.C. Assembly

VANCOUVER, Feb. 11.—(CP)—

The full weight of British Columbia labor backed up by powerful veterans' organizations will be hurled at the parliament building in Victoria next month in an effort to ram through legislation for a 40-hour week, a fixed minimum wage and vacations with pay.

Unions in Vancouver predicted "it will be the biggest Labor lobby in the history of British Columbia and even in Canada."

BETWEEN 500 AND 800 union delegates from various sections of the province will participate in the pressure campaign. The Canadian Legion and Army and Navy Veterans' officials have promised their support to Labor and will decide at early meetings how strongly they will be represented.

The lobby is expected to invade Victoria about the first week in March when proposed Labor amendments are expected to come before the provincial legislature.

The Joint American Federation of Labor-Canadian Congress of Labor committees that recently presented Labor's demands to the cabinet will meet Monday to set up a steering committee and discuss arrangements for the invasion.

Daughters of Empire Seek $50,000 for War Memorial

A fund of $500,000, the second War Memorial of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, will open Wednesday, Feb. 13, in all chapters of the Order across Canada.

THE OPENING was preceded by a broadcast on Sunday afternoon, when Leonard W. Brockington, K.C. and Matthew Haines, the well-known correspondent, spoke over CBC.

This fund, like its predecessor of World War I, will be used to provide bursaries in provincial universities for children of men who lost their lives in the recent war, also to provide overseas scholarships for graduates of Canadian universities.

MANY OUTSTANDING Canadian men and women of today received their educational opportunities through the order's previous fund. Among these are Mr. Haines from Alberta; Dr. Albert W. Trauman, president of the University of Manitoba; Miss Marjorie Monk, the well-known woman lawyer of Montreal; Prof. Watson Kirkconnell of McMaster University; Hamilton; Dr. Allie Vibert Douglas, dean of women at Queen's University; Lt. Cmdr. Bruce S. Wright, who while serving in the navy, had an invention accepted by the Admiralty; John H. Lindford, Manitoba, who was completing a year's scholarship in London when war broke out, was appointed as scientific officer by the British Admiralty to set up in Sierra Leone the first magnetic experimental station abroad in connection with magnetic mine research and this detection; Miss Sylvia Thrupp, Ph.D., of British Columbia, who in the last year won the Guggenheim Fellowship, awarded for the first time to a Canadian woman, and Dr. Kenneth Argue of the University of Alberta. In all, between three and four hundred young men and women have received assistance from the Order War Memorial of World War I.

Unappreciative Girl Not Good Wife Material

Girl Has Been Shown Many Attentions But Has Not Yet Been Known to Say Thank You For Anything

DEAR MISS DIX: A few weeks ago I met a girl whom I thought to be very charming, but when I take her to sit up with her until 2:30 a.m. and if her wishes are not carried out in everything we do she becomes very sulky. I have shown her many attentions, but she has yet to have said "thank you" for anything. She is also the most invertebrate cigarette smoker I have ever seen.

On account of these things I quit trying to see her, but I have just received a letter from her telling me plainly that she cannot live without me. Do you think she can?

ANSWER: Sweet thing you know, and if you have any backbone and brains, you will see that she does live without you. Evidently you are the best meal ticket she sees on her horizon and she is letting no madly reserve keep her from going after you.

THE IS USING woman's most potent weapon, an appeal to your vanity by telling you that she is so much in love with you that she can't live without you. Thousands of men before she has married women they are not in love with, but they didn't want to marry because the fussy ladies were on their breasts and told them how they loved them and threatened to commit suicide unless they got them. The poor things didn't have the courage to say, "No, thank you. Nothing doing. Peddle your wares elsewhere." Nor did they have the sense to grab their hats and run. And so they really scolded every one.

IF THIS woman really loved you, she would have had some consideration for you. She wouldn't have made you sit up all night when she knew you had to work the next day. She would give some evidence of appreciation of your attentions and gifts. And she certainly wouldn't try to force herself on you as a wife. Anyway, don't ever marry any woman who tries to drag you into matrimony.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My father and I disagree on two points. One is that I am 16 and would like to have a date occasionally. He lets me go skating and to the movies once a week, but nothing else. The second is he insists on my taking a high school education, while I want to quit school. I am not interested

Why Grow Old?

ANSWER: Your father is wrong about not letting you have a few dates with nice boys. There is no harm in making a girl so busy that she has no time to look over her shoulder at other girls of her age having dates, while she has to stay at home with the family.

YOU ARE wrong in not being willing to study and get a good education because the happiness and success of your whole life depends on it. The first question you will be asked when you apply for any job will be: How much schooling have you had? And if you are not even a high school graduate, you will have to take an ill-paid job. Also, no educated man will want to marry an uneducated girl.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old. I have been turning over in my mind the question of whether I should take an entire salary to my parents until two months ago. Now I give them half and they object, and I have been having a great many arguments over it. Don't you think I am old enough to take care of myself?

ANSWER: Any girl who has sense enough to hold down a good job has intelligence enough to take care of her earnings. If her family needs her help, she should give them a specified amount from her earnings, but she should not be required to turn it all in and to have only a pittance as her mother seems to do to her for her care and lunch money.

As a rule, parents are very unjust to their working daughters as compared with their treatment of their sons. They never think of taking a boy's pay away from him, but they do with a girl's, without acknowledging that she has any right to it whatsoever.

Usually, when we think of posture we think of the improvement it makes in our appearance. It is indeed startling and of great value. Pleasant little physical representations of the cause of which you yourself may not recognize.

ALL OF US ARE on our feet most of the time. If you will watch those about you who are standing on the street, in stores, in drawing rooms, you will see that many of them could stand just as well on one leg because of the way they take all of the weight. This throws the hips out of line, and if indulged in habitually may even lead to spinal curvature.

You may feel that you are stiff and unnatural when you assume good posture. If this is so it is because it is so different from the way you have been standing or because you are doing it incorrectly. Good posture is anything BUT stiff. It is easy and relieves strain. To stand properly be sure that your body weight is divided evenly between your two feet, feet a little apart and toes pointing forward. Do not throw your shoulders back wildly but straighten your spine and keep your chest out and pull your abdomen in. Lift your chin up and straighten your spine and your chest will take care of itself. Pull your hips under and relax your knees. Tighten knees lead to poor posture.

WHEN YOU SIT in a chair keep your back straight and let your high and leg muscles do the work. Also, do not collapse in the middle after you are seated. Keep your abdomen in and your spine straight. Believe me, good posture is a powerful aid in keeping energy at high level and in working with ease and efficiency. The so-called "relaxed" postures are much more tiring than the good ones and you will find yourself less weary at the end of the day if you will improve your carriage.

IF YOU WISH to have my leaflet "Grace" which outlines exercises for balance and grace and gives suggestions for the improvement of posture, self-addressed envelope with this request for leaflet No. 51 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

While the declaimer on a hand probably has more opportunity for good plays than in drawing rooms, you will see that many of them could stand just as well on one leg because of the way they take all of the weight. This throws the hips out of line, and if indulged in habitually may even lead to spinal curvature.

toes pointing forward. Do not throw your shoulders back wildly but straighten your spine and keep your chest out and pull your abdomen in. Lift your chin up and straighten your spine and your chest will take care of itself. Pull your hips under and relax your knees. Tighten knees lead to poor posture.

WHEN YOU SIT in a chair keep your back straight and let your high and leg muscles do the work. Also, do not collapse in the middle after you are seated. Keep your abdomen in and your spine straight. Believe me, good posture is a powerful aid in keeping energy at high level and in working with ease and efficiency. The so-called "relaxed" postures are much more tiring than the good ones and you will find yourself less weary at the end of the day if you will improve your carriage.

IF YOU WISH to have my leaflet "Grace" which outlines exercises for balance and grace and gives suggestions for the improvement of posture, self-addressed envelope with this request for leaflet No. 51 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED
The baby sits up, and ears turn over easily when he rolls his head from side to side. This baby worries the mother who wants him to have ears which lie close to his head.

Yes, every baby, at some time or another, folds his ears forward when he sleeps and this alone could be responsible for outstanding ears.

Rare, like noses, mouths, heads and all the rest of our physical characteristics, are the result of heredity. While a baby pulls his ears persistently at one or both ears can pull the ears until they flare noticeably. The ordinary mother, however, might momentarily turn the ears forward but not ruin their shape permanently.

It is well, as aid to baby's comfort, to see that his ears are flat to his head when he is laid in his crib. Then one can feel sure that the distance of the baby's quiet, restful sleep will be avoided.

LATER, if he begins to use his ears as playthings, the mother can resort to a snuffing, fluff, nod, which will prevent him from getting at his ears. This can be made over any head pattern, which fits the head snugly and is made of non-perforated material, such as cotton net, reinforced around the edge with cotton tape.

WHAT IS SAID of the baby's ears is equally true of the head. Children of sleeping will not permanently ruin the shape of the head. Baby's heads are not peculiarly misshapen after they are born and it may take several months for them to assume their hereditary pattern.

But still, parents the baby's own comfort, and because he cannot turn his head, he has to lie on his back. Position of position often enough to prevent him from developing any peculiar sleeping postures. If he lies on his side, let him turn his head on his back, then turn him on his other side, and then get him accustomed to sleeping in various positions.

THE BABY will sleep if he is turned once every hour or so. There is no harm in this, whether a favorite sleeping position on back or right or left side, will result in any permanent deformation of the head. Both head and ears will probably be very much what nature intended them to be.

After the break-down, you may be able to fool your doctor about the condition of the heart. But the fact of the matter is that the heart is the most important thing in the body. It is the pump that keeps the blood flowing. If it fails, the body dies.

It is well known that doctors are especially prone to die of heart disease. This is explained by the kind of life they are forced to lead. They are men of great energy, and they are men of great responsibility. They are men who are always on their feet, and they are men who are always under stress and strain.

There are some plain, ordinary, sensible rules for you to follow in helping your heart. 1. Insofar as possible, avoid continued strain and tension. Persistent strain is hard on the blood pressure and with a rise in blood pressure, the heart is forced to pump more blood, and this increases the possibility of heart disease. Whenever you find yourself on the verge of over-exertion, stop. Rest. Relax. Let your heart get its rest.

2. Plan your time so that you have rest periods during the day. You will do more work and at the same time, your heart will be rested. 3. If you find you are overindulging in coffee or tobacco, cut down. Moderation is far better than over-indulgence.

4. Plan your time so that you have rest periods during the day. You will do more work and at the same time, your heart will be rested. 5. If you find you are overindulging in coffee or tobacco, cut down. Moderation is far better than over-indulgence.

6. When you know that infections are present, at the root of arthritis, or in the tonsils, or elsewhere, see that they receive attention. While all focal infections do not cause heart trouble, there is evidence that persistent low-grade infection may harm the heart.

I am sure that the practice of habits I have suggested will be of great help to you in keeping your heart to stay strong and healthy. Get the idea of wanting a good heart and do the things which will help you to get it.

Churchill Deplored Losses Statement

By Late President

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—Winston Churchill said in a secret speech before the House of Commons June 25, 1941, that a statement by the late president Roosevelt on British shipping losses had "a bad effect" on the morale of the British people.

The former British prime minister's speech reviewed the situation of Great Britain with regard to shipping losses, anti-submarine measures, imports and exports. Mr. Churchill praised the efforts of the British people in the war, and expressed gratitude for the aid extended by the United States.

He told the house, however, that publication of shipping losses was being stopped after June 15, because the information was of value to Germany.

Seven Are Killed In Tenement Blaze

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 11. (AP)—Firemen removed the bodies of seven men, only one of whom was identified, from the seared interior of a tenement street rooming house yesterday. "Between seven and nine" other roomers, including two women, escaped flames and smoke which spread rapidly in the three-story, frame structure.
